The People Who Make the Products that Make a Difference

Bioprocessing Materials

Materials in Bioprocessing: Building Blocks of Quality and Innovation

In the dynamic realm of bioprocessing, the choice of materials plays a pivotal role in shaping the efficiency, safety, and sustainability of the biopharmaceutical industry. From stainless steel to plastics, each material used in bioprocessing serves a specific purpose. Each contributes to the advancement of healthcare and the production of life-saving therapies.

Anniversaries

We have so much to be thankful for this season – from the bountiful blessings of family, friends, and good health to the unwavering dedication and hard work of our colleagues at KEP. This exceptional team is the backbone of our success! Please join us in celebrating our team members with anniversaries in November.

This month we have a total of 127 years of longevity to celebrate! November 17th marked 26 years of loyalty to KEP for Donald Tomello, a Tender at our Kent facility. Greg Graham, a Director of Extrusion Operations, will be hitting his 22-year mark on November 26th. Also topping two decades with KEP is April Butcher, who marks 21 years on November 8th. Carrie Ewart is also celebrating 14 years on November 30th. Here are all of our November anniversaries!

Meet The Team

"Pay attention. Learn as much as you can. Go beyond just your job and see the bigger picture."

Meet Trevor Stephenson!

Operator | Since 2018

Meet Trevor Stephenson, an Operator at our Kent Facility! For the past five years, Trevor's responsibilities have included operating machinery, gauging tubing, and making corrections for quality. This enables KEP to provide top-notch products to our customers. Trevor's advice for his colleagues: "Pay attention. Learn as much as you can. Go beyond just your job and see the bigger picture." We love that tip!
